There is an article in 'The History of Okolona, Kentucky' compiled in 1956 by the Okolona Homemakers' Club entitled 'Old Clipping Reveals Story of Brentlinger Home and Old Fort' which is very interesting and gives some history of the family in early Kentucky pioneer days. This is a republication of an article published in the Jeffersonian dated Sep 15, 1921.

Their plantation was located on what is now Hurstbourne Lane in Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky. One of the two houses still standing there. They were slave owners.

Andrew Brendlinger

According to the book "History of the Okolona Area", Jefferson County, Kentucky: "Mr Brentlinger lived there about 60 years and reared 16 children. Seven survive, the oldest 86 and another 80. He had 3 wives, all cousins. Andrew Brentlinger, father of Samuel, was born in 1769 and came to Jefferson County, Kentucky some time before 1799. He and his wife Susan Funk owned 200 acres on Cedar Creek and 100 acres on Pennsylvania Run. Sons in article are Peter, Jonathon, and Joseph. Before they came to Kentucky the name shows up as Brendlinger and maybe others.

Having lived through their years of married life side by side as husband and wife to a ripe age, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Brentlinger will go to their graves together. Notes for Joetta Lee Brentlinger:
Not sure who this is addressed to.

Just a note to let you know that your great-grandmother was my grandfather's sister. So I guess that makes us 2nd cousins, once removed.

Joetta Lee (b. 16 Jun 1864 in Bullitt Co, KY) was the daughter of Josiah Wells Brentlinger (12 Jul 1835 - 6 Jan 1892, Louisville, KY) and Mary Jane McMillen (6 Nov 1839 - 10 May 1902). Josiah and Mary Jane lived in Jefferson Co, KY on a farm on Pennsylvania Run, and they are buried in the Pennsylvania Run Cemetery. Josiah and Mary Jane had 12 children, 6 boys and 6 girls. Your g-grandmother and a sister (Emma Rebecca) were the only girls who married and my grandfather, Thomas Andrew (21 Sep 1869 - 6 Nov 1937) was the only male that married. I have the Brentlinger Genealogy line back to Germany in the 1700's if you're interested.

OBITUARY OF DR. EMORY WATSON BRUNER:

"Son of Pioneer Doctor Won Phenomenal Success As A Cancer Specialist"

Dr. Emory Watson Bruner, 81, cancer specialist and one of the oldest practising physicians in Clark County, died of uraemic poisoning at 3:45 o'clock this morning at his home, 332 Indiana Avenue, Jeffersonville, Clark County, Indiana. Dr. Bruner underwent an operation at St. Mary & Elizabeth's Hospital, Louisville, about two weeks ago. He was brought home Sunday before last and from that time his decline was rapid. Dr. Bruner was widely known as the "poor man's friend". He would ride night and day to serve persons who called him time after time and make no pretense of paying for his services. When he left Ft. Smith, Arkansas, in the "'90's" after practicing there for ten years, he boasted that he "had the pleasure of warming himself" at a fire kindled with his ledger books on which were unpaid bills amounting to $80,000. A few years ago in Jeffersonville, he burned ledgers on which were recorded $40,000 due him for medical services.

Generation 8 (con't)

Dr. Bruner was born at Bedford, Indiana, October 12, 1841. He was the son of Dr. Jacob Bruner, a pioneer physician, who began to preach and practice medicine in Southern Indiana nearly a century ago. The family had been established on the frontier since early times.

Dr. Bruner was educated at Miami College, Oxford, Ohio, and began practice of medicine at Utica, Indiana, 57 years ago, succeeding the practice of his father at that town. Later he went to Sellersburg, Indiana, and then established himself in Jeffersonville half a century ago. For fifty years he had specialized in the treatment of cancer, and though his methods were not generally adopted by the profession, in his hands they won phenomenal success. He had treated thousands for the dread disease, & hundreds who had been pronounced incurable by other physicians testify that he had cured them. As finally developed by Dr. Bruner, the cancer treatment was by hypodermic; he did not use the knife except at the beginning of his career. It was said that he could tell instantly whether he could benefit a patient. He said he could not arrest the disease, if it had obtained too great headway. Dr. Bruner began to suffer from Brights disease twenty-six years ago. It was contracted by constant horseback riding answering calls. When sickness was prevalent, he used four horses, changing them for rest he did not take himself. His achievement in prolonging his life for twenty-six years while suffering from Brights disease is said to have set a record.

Dr. Bruner enlisted in the 81st Indiana Volunteer Infantry in the Civil War as a private and rose to the rank of 1st Lieutenant. He fought at Shiloh and in other engagements and was wounded in the arm at the battle of Stone River.

Dr. Bruner was a Presbyterian and a Republican, but did not take an active interest in politics, his profession absorbing his attention until he became too ill to practice a few months ago.

His first wife was Miss Maggie McMillan, who died in 1883. Surviving children of this marriage are Willett Bruner, Duinsmore, Calif, Melville Bruner, Jeffersonville; and Roy Bruner of Logansport, Indiana. In 1885 Dr. Bruner married Miss Joetta Bretlinger, who survives him with the following children: Mrs. Nettie Nachand, Mrs Pearl Meade & Facob Bruner of Jeffersonville; Paul Bruner of Charlestown, Dr. Ralph Bruner and Mrs. Emory Engle of Sellersburg, Ind. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home. Burial will be in Walnut Ridge Cemetery.

HARVEY S. LUTE carries on general farming in Green township, Indiana county, but is especially interested in the growing of potatoes, in which he has been notably successful. The farm he owns and lives upon by himself and his immediate ancestors for the better part of a century, his grandfather, Jacob Lute, having settled there many years ago. The Lute family is of German origin, and has been settled in America for about two hundred years. It has long been established in Westmoreland county, where Jacob Lute was born. Coming to Indiana county he bought a farm in Green township, where he and his son Frederick, the father of Harvey S. Lute, built a log house at first. This was replaced in time by the substantial house Mr. Harvey S. Lute occupies, which was erected in 1862. Jacob Lute continued to live on this place until his death which took place in the house now occupied by his grandson.

FREDERICK LUTE, son of Jacob Lute, was born Feb. 2, 1817, in Westmoreland county, Pa., came to Indiana county with his father, and died here July 23, 1904. He married Amelia Karlinsey, who was born in Cambria county, Pa., daughter of Daniel Karlinsey, a native of Germany who came to America and made his home in Cambria county, Pa., where his wife, Sarah died; he died at the battle of Fredericksburg, while serving in the Civil war. Mrs. Lute died March 10, 1881. Five children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lute, namely: Harry F., who lives in Idaho; Lottie, wife of Bruce Lute, of Indiana county; Daniel, deceased; Blanche, wife of Archie F. Westover, of Cambria county; and Harvey S. Harvey S. Lute was born March 17, 1879, in Green township, and received his education in the public schools there. When a boy he began farming, and after the death of his father became the owner of the home place, where he has ever since engaged in general agricultural pursuits. He is one of the largest growers of potatoes in Indiana county, having raised three thousand, four hundred bushels in 1911, off thirteen acres. This branch of his work has been thoroughly systematized, and he makes a business of wholesaling and retailing, not selling through commissioned men.

On July 6, 1903, Mr. Lute was married to Elizabeth H. Walker, who is a native of Venango county, Pa., daughter of Robert and Jane (Williams) Walker, both of whom are deceased. J Walker was extensively engaged in the manufacture of brushes at Franklin, Pa. He died Aug. 28, 1903; his wife had passed away Feb. 28, 1886. They were the parents of nine children, of whom Susan, the eldest, is deceased; one died in infancy; Elizabeth M. is the wife of Harvey S. Lute; Robert is a

When they were discovered the car was still running and they found a note in McFadden's pocket addressed to another gal (Bertha Milligan), stating that he "could not love two women. I love you as well as the next one. I guess when you see me the next time I will be a dead one. I don't have money to get married now. I am going out and take my friend for a ride. She will die with me. It will be a case of love and die for love. Goodbye."

Notes for Alfred Bruce Clawson:

The one story that I like to use about my grandpap Clawson is that he was disabled by two different work related accidents. In one, he lost three fingers on his right hand (occurred before 1918 according to a draft registration card) and he had only his thumb and pointer finger. He had the other arm amputated above the elbow in another work related accident when his shirt sleeve got caught in some machinery. When he was in his sixties and seventies, he was the manager at a Western Auto store in Seward, Pennsylvania. One day, a young guy came in and pulled a gun on him and tried to rob him. I guess he figured he would be an easy prey since he was old and disabled. My grandfather reached under the counter and pulled out the gun (A 38, I believe) that he always had at the store with him and told the guy that if he didn't leave the store in five seconds that he was going to shoot him. This guy didn't expect this and he hightailed out the store without ever trying to take my grandfather on. They caught this guy later on. My grandfather could be downright stern when he needed to be but he was still a fun person to be around. Also with his disabilities, he drove a standard shift automobile most of his life. (Told by Keith Clawson)

As told by Bruce A. Clawson, when A. Bruce Clawson was growing up, he lived with his parents near the Pennsylvania Railroad main tracks near Bolivar. When walking the tracks such as to go into Bolivar, he would carry a loaded pistol. This was due to number of hobos who would ride the freight trains that passed through. The hobos were known to attack and sometimes kill people that they would encounter along the tracks.

Generation 9 (con't)

Another story told by Bruce A. was that A. Bruce and his brother Bobby (Ralph Davis Clawson) were going through Oak Grove (north of Ligonier) in an automobile one time. A. Bruce was driving the automobile. Someone ran from the side of the road and hopped on the running boards of the automobile. A. Bruce told his brother to get the man off the car and Bobby pushed him off the car. Bobby then proceeded to fire a few shots from a pistol at this person's feet to make sure he ran away and left them alone.

According to the 1930 census, Bruce and his family were living in Bolivar, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

Notes for Florence Hannah Miller:

Florence was called Nana by all of her grandchildren. She did not want to be called grandmother.

Kills Brother Wounds Son and Is Slain

Robinson, Pa. (AP) - A man killed his brother and wounded two boys, one his son, then was shot to death by state police today, climaxing a short manhunt near this time Indiana County community.

Richard Lichtenfels, 35, of Robinson was killed by the troopers after they caught a glint of light reflected from a watch or shotgun in a cellar, police said.

He had taken refuge in the basement after slaying his brother, Albert, 42, and wounding his son, Donald, 15, and a visiting friend, Gary Clark, 18, of nearby New Florence R. D. 2, Monday night.

Police said Lt. James Barger and trooper John Bardoff, acting on an anonymous tip, went in the cellar of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McAnulty of Robinson.

There, they opened fire with their service revolvers, police said, after catching a glimpse of light from behind a carpet hanging on a clothes line Lichtenfels fell to the floor, and was pronounced dead at the scene. He was carrying a double-barrel shotgun.

Armed with the shotgun, he fled into a heavy woods.

State police quickly condoned off the area and scores of searchers, their way lighted mobile search lights, scoured the woods and fields.

Blairsville Dispatch (November 5, 2003)

SEWARD--Russell "Jake" Lichtenfels, 86, of East Wheatfield Township and Melvin Shearer, 80, of New Florence consider themselves lucky men.

They're still alive to mark Veterans' Day next Thursday. But for the chance assignment to a particular mission or the unpredictable outcome of exchanged weapons fire, these World War II Army veterans might have joined comrades who fell on the battlefields of western Europe and the South Pacific 60 years ago.

Generation 9 (con't)

Shearer, a native of Seward, was drafted into the Army in September 1943 and was sent to the war's Pacific Theater.

There, in January 1945, he joined 120 fellow Army Rangers in a daring raid behind Japanese lines in the Philippines. They liberated 513 American and British prisoners of war, including survivors of the Bataan Death March three years earlier.

Good planning and the assistance of Filipino guerrillas helped Shearer's 6th Ranger Battalion surprise the Japanese at Camp Cabanatuan, about 60 miles inland from Manila.

But Shearer feels good fortune also came into play: "We were glad that we only lost two men; we could've all been wiped out....We lucked out."

There were far fewer happy endings among fellow Rangers who drew a different assignment, he noted. "They sent some of them to Italy, where they got wiped out."

Lichtenfels, who grew up in Robinson, witnessed such decimation all around him. His 110th Infantry, 28th Division suffered heavy casualties during the Normandy invasion and subsequent drive into Germany during the latter half of 1945.

"We came out of Normandy with one officer left out of seven," Lichtenfels said. Contributing to that toll was a quick succession of a dozen or more commanders for his Co. L, in which many local men served.

"The turnover was so great because of the casualties," Lichtenfels said. "We got new men every day" to fill the gaps.

After Germany's final counter-offensive, the Battle of the Bulge, the company had been reduced from 185 men to just 24. Whether through the work of a guardian angel or simple fate, Lichtenfels was the sole survivor of the original contingent which had landed at Normandy.

Lichtenfels originally joined the Blairsville National Guard unit early in 1941, before the United States entered World War II.

When the unit was activated, he said, "We were going to put in a year's service and then be discharged. But then Pearl Harbor broke out and that changed."

A sergeant, Lichtenfels was not among the first waves of troops which made the initial landing at Normandy on June 6, 1944. His division followed about six days later.

He explained his unit had been held in reserve because of the training it had completed in amphibious operations: "If the initial beachhead failed, then we were to go in."

Witness to the success of the hard-fought landing were the swollen, blackened bodies of German casualties Lichtenfels encountered.

Once on land, he turned his attention to his primary role: directly supervising the transport of food and material.

"My job was to see that ammunition and supplies were delivered to the front," he explained, adding, "We did all the motorized patrols. It was a risky job."

Lichtenfels selected drivers for his small convoy of two jeeps, a kitchen truck and trailer.

He noted, "You always buddied up with somebody who would lay their life on the line for you."

Generation 9 (con't)

The worst point in the war for Lichtenfels came in November 1944, when they were pitted against the Germans in the Hurtgen Forest, southwest of Cologne.

Overall action in that region resulted in 33,000 American casualties over two months, as a series of divisions were decimated in the difficult terrain.

"I spent 15 days in the Hurtgen Forest, and that was enough," Lichtenfels said. "It was more of a trap than anything."

While his company established a forward communications center at a former resort at the bottom of a valley, Lichtenfels noted U.S. troops were hampered by muddy ground and were harassed by Germans on surrounding hills.

"There were acres of evergreens on two sides of the hill," he said.

At least once each day, Lichtenfels directed his convoy down the valley to supply the communications center.

"It was two miles down over the hill," he recalled of the muddy terrain. "It was surely a mess. You had to have chains on the tires; you'd get down in and then you couldn't get out.

"I'd go down in there every night, and I held my breath and prayed."

Military officials tried other measures besides chains to tackle the mucky ground.

Luckily for Lichtenfels, he was not chosen to take part in the weasel's initial trip down.

He said, "That first night, the Germans shot it up and captured the (driver). A mess sergeant who was with him made a break for it."

Lichtenfels argues that it was a mistake for Allied military planners to advance into the Hurtgen Forest: "They should have bypassed it."

That's a sentiment many modern historians share, including Cecil B. Currey, a professor of military history, who penned a book about the Hurtgen Forest. Titled Follow Me And Die: The Destruction of an American Division, two copies of the book were given to Lichtenfels by a friend and former comrade, in Co. L, William Short of Hillside.

After surviving Hurtgen Forest, Lichtenfels tempted fate when he agreed to ignore orders to return stateside.

Said Lichtenfels, "When orders came for me to go home, the company commander, Stanley Jones, told me two brothers had come into our outfit, George and Sherman Tuck from Tennessee, but the oldest one got killed in Normandy.

"He said, 'How about sending the other boy home? It's up to you.' "

"I said, 'Send him home in my place.' "

While camped in a Wales woods, preparing for D-Day, they could see German bombs being dropped on an airport a few miles away--actually a dummy installation meant to draw enemy fire from real targets. "It looked like the Fourth of July," Lichtenfels recalled of the fire-bombing.

But that was nothing compared to the V-1 buzz bombs, which the Germans lobbed at civilians in England.

Generation 9 (con't)

He said, "We saw them fire off the V-1 rockets, and we fired on them with our 50 mm guns. When one of them was hit, it exploded and the trees were all torn off for an acre around it."

According to Lichtenfels, such attacks on the rockets were called off for fear an explosion could wipe out Allied troops in the area.

Mortar fire was another frequent hazard for the G.I.s. as they advanced into enemy territory.

In the wee hours of the morning, under the cover of darkness, Lichtenfels made a convoy run to bring supplies to soldiers facing the Siegfried Line: a thick band of concrete tank barriers on Germany's western front.

Lines of pillboxes were the first German structures to be seized, providing the American soldiers some welcome shelter as they continued efforts to break through.

"We kept within a couple hundred yards of the front continually," Lichtenfels said of that supply detail.

"The mess sergeant would walk ahead of me with a piece of white cloth on his back so I could see where to drive" through the darkness, he explained.

But once, both the sergeant and Lichtenfels missed spotting a large hole left by a mortar explosion--and Lichtenfels' jeep slid right into the pit. "It was almost standing up on end," he said.

Risking being mistaken and shot as an enemy scout, the mess sergeant crept over to an American tank and asked for "a little pull out" from the shell hole.

On another occasion, in Normandy, a mortar landed near a neighboring soldier's fox hole, just yards away from Lichtenfels.

The concussion knocked Lichtenfels out. He noted, "The medics had come in and picked up the other guy before I came to."

Enemy mines presented another constant danger.

According to Lichtenfels, the infantry troops were accompanied by an engineer unit, which used a mine sweeper to check for the booby traps.

But, he noted, "They made plastic mines that you couldn't find with a metal detector"and "small mines that would blow up with trip wires. That's the chance you took."

He recalled a graphic example of the force the hidden devices could unleash: "A jeep ran over a mine, and it blew it up on top of a big tree."

Fate intervened to keep Lichtenfels from being captured in the Battle of the Bulge.

He noted his unit had taken shelter in local farmhouses in the border town of Consthum, Luxembourg, where the residents were sympathetic to the Allied cause.

Said Lichtenfels, "The civilians were friendly. They didn't want the war; it was destroying them."

But, "They told us the Germans would be back for Christmas, and they were."

At one old house being used as a forward outpost, Lichtenfels said, "You could look across the Our River and see the Germans." For a while there was an unspoken agreement between the combatants: "Don't fire on us and we won't fire on you."

But they heard ominous sounds of moving tanks on the other side of the river.

On a fateful December morning, Lichtenfels said, "It was my turn to take a patrol out to the outpost but we were having hotcakes for breakfast.

"My driver, Joel Olson from Illinois, said, 'Eat your breakfast, I'll take the patrol out.' "

Lichtenfels learned of the details after the war, when he received a letter from Olson: "They held out for three days, and then the Germans burned the house down to get them out and take them prisoner. They marched them to Poland and the coal mines."

Two miles away, Lichtenfels and the rest of the unit began to retreat.

"We never got an official order, but our company commander said, 'It's everyone for himself,' " while firing at a tank with a bazooka.

"All we had was infantry guns and the Germans had tanks and all kinds of equipment," Lichtenfels said. "We pulled back about five miles, but (not) orderly."

Stragglers met at an old schoolhouse.

Luckily, after an initial aerial attack on the structure, Lichtenfels said, "We were down over a bank lying in a ditch" when German jets returned to bomb it more thoroughly.

"That was the first time I'd seen a German jet plane," he said.

After a much-deserved break the battered division in the spring of 1945 was assigned their last major action in the war: clearing an area of German resistance known as the Colmar Pocket. It bulged 30 miles into the Alsace region of France.

There Lichtenfels had a surprising encounter with some unusual allies: the Goums.

He also was taken aback when he realized what at first appeared to be figs hanging on their tanks were actually the ears of conquered Germans.

In sharp contrast, he added, "I met one of their commanders, and he had graduated from Harvard."

While serving in Europe, Lichtenfels noted, the American soldiers didn't fare too badly when it came to food and refreshment.

Army rations went down easier with a swig of schnapps prepared from local potatoes.

"When they sent replacement troops up to us, they didn't even have overcoats."

With foresight, in September, Lichtenfels had sent home asking for felt shoes.

Then, when snow packs (winter boots with leather bottoms and rubber tops) were issued, and size 10 was the smallest available, Lichtenfels discovered the felt shoes fit perfectly, providing extra insulation and padding inside the oversized boots.

He also received two minor shrapnel wounds--scratches, he terms them. "It looked like a million razor blades all glued together," he said, describing the shrapnel.

"I got a first aid man to put a Band-Aid on it," he said. "If you were sent back for treatment, you would never get sent to the same company again, so I just ignored it."

While still in the Philippines, he said, "Me and another guy were coming off guard duty and his gun went off and hit me in the right knee."

Shearer was shipped back to an Army hospital and was discharged in September 1945.

For years, he could hardly bend the knee and it caused him chronic pain. Finally he had the knee replaced about a decade ago.

"They gave us these yellow pills, but they didn't stop you from getting the disease, they just kept it dormant."

Back in America, he stopped taking the pills. But, a few years later, the symptoms hit him full force--severe fevers and chills--until he was treated with quinine.

In January 1945, at 20, Shearer was one of the youngest members of the Ranger unit which won acclaim with its liberation of the POWs at Cabanatuan.

The inspiring episode has been documented in at least three books: Hour of Redemption and Raid on Cabanatuan by Forrest Bryant Johnson and Ghost Soldiers by Hampton Sides.

Before they were ready for action, the newly formed 6th Ranger Battalion underwent six months of training in New Guinea.

Shearer recalled, "It was pretty hot and humid. It rained every afternoon.

"We would run two miles before breakfast, take target practice for half a day and then do calisthenics."

It was physically demanding, but, "I was still young then, so it didn't bother me."

Shipments of cookies from his mother provided a touch of home. Shearer said, "I made my mind up I wasn't going to be homesick. I just figured I was going to be away from home for the rest of the war and there was nothing I could do about it."

Departing for the Philippines on Oct. 17, 1944, the Rangers were given the initial task of seizing Dinagat, an island where the Japanese were thought to be manning large coastal guns.

He said, "We found the guns, but there were no Japanese there."

Due to the need for secrecy, Shearer and the other men didn't know the nature of their mission at Cabanatuan when they signed up.

"They asked for volunteers and there was only one man who didn't go because he was sick."

When they finally were informed they were going to attempt a rescue of fellow Americans, Shearer said, "Everyone felt good about it.

"You just hoped that you got it done safely. You didn't know what was in store."

As it turned out, the mission "went off without a hitch. We were really surprised."

Basing their operations in the village of Guimba, "We were behind the Japanese lines for two and a half days," marching about 30 miles to reach the camp.

The Rangers took every precaution in planning their raid. But there was a sense of urgency.

With the occupying Japanese feeling pressured and beginning to withdraw, "We figured they might execute all the prisoners."

The prison was not as heavily manned as it might have been. "The Japanese were going to the mountains to make a stand. We were supposed to make the raid on (Jan. 29), but they put it off one day when a Japanese division passed by."

Shearer, a private first class, said the Rangers took steps to avoid detection.

Each soldier was armed with a rifle, a .45 pistol, hand grenades and a couple of belts of ammunition.

"We went across the Pampanga River before dark, wading across." Its flow at a wintertime low, "The water was only up to your knee, but it was really swift."

Then, "We crawled across an open rice field. No one saw us."

The raid was timed to occur during a brief period of nearly impenetrable darkness--after the sun set but before a bright moon rose to illuminate the countryside.

"As soon as it was dusk, we broke the prison camp open," Shearer said.

He estimated it took only about 45 minutes to quell the resistance, round up the prisoners and evacuate them. Then, "As soon as we got back, the moon came out over the mountains and it was bright as day."

The element of surprise and the fact that Filipino guerrillas neutralized a nearby force of Japanese aided the mission.

Japanese soldiers and guards were quickly silenced in pillboxes and towers around the camp.

The other, the unit's surgeon, Captain Jimmy Fisher, "got hit with a mortar at the main gate," and died later, Shearer said.

To clear the way for the mission, a group known as the "Alamo Scouts" had disguised themselves as Filipinos and made use of a nearby observation post.

"A lot of us also had regular Filipino garb on," Shearer said, adding to the confusion of the POWs when the Rangers burst into camp.

Generation 9 (con't)

Shearer said, "We told them, 'You're free now.' But a lot of them thought it was a Filipino raid," and were reluctant to be liberated. "It was so dark they couldn't tell what we had on anyway."

Some POWs also suffered from night blindness.

"We didn't have any stretchers," Shearer noted. To evacuate the more frail or ill POWs, "We put our fatigue jackets across our rifles and carried them."

Once the freed prisoners were back over the river, Filipinos loaded many of them aboard carts drawn by carabao, water buffalo. "You could get about six people in each cart," Shearer said.

Once the rescue was completed, it took a while for the mission to sink in.

"We didn't realize until a few days later how many we got out," Shearer said.

One soldier who was deaf and in the latrine, suffering from an intestinal malady, didn't realize the rescue was under way. He later made it out on his own.

Back at headquarters, the POWs mingled with their liberators and pose for photos. Shearer posed with a fellow Pennsylvanian--Leon Tice Jr. from Ogdenburg.

"Tice wrote a letter to my mother one time, but that was the last I heard of him," he said.

Lichtenfels has lost track of other members from his unit and is hoping to hear from them at 814-446-5801.

Obituary for Kenneth Lee Richard

KENNETH L. RICHARD, 86, San Antonio, Texas, formerly of Bowman, North Dakota, died Sunday Aug 24, 1997, at his home in San Antonio. Funeral services were held Saturday morning August 30th at 10 AM at the Bowman Lutheran Church, Bowman. The Rev. Galen Strand officiated with the burial following the service in the Bowman Cemetary.

Kenneth Richard was born Sep 11, 1910, in Star Township, Bowman, ND, son of John and Lavina Derry Richard and the oldest of 8 children. He was reared 5 miles north of Bowman and received his education at the Star Consolidated School. At a young age he worked at various jobs in the area including mining coal at the Haaleck Coal Mine, north of Bowman and other seasonal work in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon , Iowa, and Montana.

He enlisted in the United States Army on November 1, 1939 at Fort Missoula, Montana in the 65th Coast Artillery. He served a total of 3 years, 11 months, and 14 days in overseas assignments which included guarding the Mayflower Locks at the Panama Canal and later as a Battery C 796th Antiaircraft Artillery of the 10th Armored Division commanded by General George Patton. He participated in battles and campaigns in the Rhineland, Ardennes, and Central Europe, including the Battle of The Bulge. He was awarded the Purple Heart for injuries received at Ale, Germany. He was honorably discharged at the rank of Corporal on Aug. 14, 1945 at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin after serving his country for 5 years and 9 months and 14 days.

Following his discharge, he returned to Bowman, purchased farm land in Gem Township 10 miles south of Bowman and farmed for many years. On April 4, 1948, he united in marriage to Viola E. Anderson at the Lutheran Church in Baker, Montana. To this union 3 children have been born: Lee, Delaine, and Terry. Due to failing health he retired from active farming in the early 1960's. In 1989, they moved to Denver, Colorado and later to San Antonio, Texas to make their home with their son and daughter -in-law Lee and Ruth.

Kenneth was a member of the Bowman Lutheran Church, a life member of the Bowman Historical Society and a 37 year member of the Bowman American Legion. He enjoyed playing baseball, reading, hunting, fishing and visiting people. He took much pride in the remodeling that he and his brother Dale, did to their home. He holds the record for catching the largest fish off the Bowman/Harley Dam in Oct 1976, a Northern Pike weighing 20 lbs., 4oz. and 44 inches long. Despite ill health, he was a devoted and generous husband and father. He gladly helped his neighbors if they needed assistance and frequently provided transportation to those who needed it when he lived in Bowman. His greatest pride was his children.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his wife, Viola; one son Terry; three brothers Dean, Milo, Shirley{ Shorts}; and three sisters Beulah; Melba ; and Frances{Frences} . Survivors include one son and daughter-in-law, Dr. Lee and Ruth Richard, San Antonio, Texas. DeLaine and Tom Evensvold, Montevideo, MN; one brother Dale Richard, Spearfish, SD, three precious grand
